

Brian Skinner

U.S. Physics Team Coach

The Ohio State University

Columbus, OH

Brian is an Assistant Professor of theoretical condensed matter physics at the Ohio State University. His research focuses broadly on collective quantum mechanical phenomena in many-electron systems. In his spare time he likes reading old novels and nerding out about basketball (he has written several academic papers about basketball strategy).