

Kevin Zhou

U.S. Physics Team Coach

Stanford University

Stanford, CA

Kevin is a PhD student at Stanford, focusing on novel ways to search for new particles, using precision measurements and astrophysical observations. He came to the US physics team training camp in 2012 and 2013, and has returned to coach several times. During the pandemic, he developed a comprehensive, free curriculum for Olympiad preparation used by students around the world.